

During the Reign of Terror in France, many people were killed by the guillotine. The French had a Revolution several years after the American Revolution. They killed their king and queen and many other people.